

Bioeconomy Education

What do you want students to learn?

Our objective as four collaborating universities is to inspire and train a new generation of (biobased economy) students and professionals. We'll develop 4 new modules for online use, available for MSc-students and professionals, as a coherent portfolio to get acquainted to the bioeconomy.

An important issue when developing new courses is to have insight in the required competences of (future) employees in industry and other organisations. We ask you to join a short survey online for co-creating the bioeconomy education.

Education for the biobased economy: Which aspects are most important from your point of view? What is missing? What should be top-priority?
Please fill in our survey on our website: www.wur.nl/nl/project/ABBEE.htm
