

SIG Equal partnerships and responsible international collaboration

This session will discuss how institutions may work to promote equal partnerships and responsible internationalisation, focusing on the role of administrators. It is an interactive session where participants will learn about the context in Southern Africa and the Nordic countries, be provided with examples of concrete tools, but also be given an opportunity to share experiences of institutional efforts in this area. The session is arranged by the SANORD Special Interest Group for International Managers and Key Administrators, and open to all interested in internationalisation of higher education and research. The session partly builds on the presentation “Equitable Partnerships Between Universities in the Global North and Global South: Challenges, Principles & Best Practices” from panel 1 on Wednesday
